APPROACH

We listen

To our customers' specific needs. In order to deliver quality business consulting services, we work closely with our clients to understand and articulate their current challenges and requirements.

We mine

Our formidable network of seasoned consultants for the one (or two or three) we believe can best understand, analyze, address and solve the current challenges a specific client faces. In addition, we actively cultivate the relationships amongst our consultants to ensure premier expertise and knowledge is shared and imparted to our customers.

We deliver

A unique, custom solution tailored to the specifications of our client. One that is considerate of existing circumstances but which isn't afraid to nudge the client in new directions if we believe this makes business sense for them.

We return

To measure our results on an on-going basis as part of our quality improvement and customer satisfaction processes. Customer satisfaction is more than marketing mantra to us; it is absolutely vital to us that our customers are satisfied with the complete SourceMC package - the company, the consultant we provided, and the solution we delivered.
